Habitat for Humanity Susquehanna will meet on Capitol Hill for the annual legislative conference to discuss the need for affordable housing
Habitat on the Hill 2023: Advocacy for Impact takes place in D.C. on February 7-9

BEL AIR, MD (Feb 7, 2023) – Habitat for Humanity Susquehanna will join hundreds of local Habitat organizations and affordable housing advocates in-person this week for Habitat for Humanity’s annual legislative conference, Habitat on the Hill.

During the three-day, D.C. based event, advocates will convene and meet with Congressional leaders to draw attention to and discuss actionable solutions to housing affordability challenges faced by rural, suburban and urban communities across the nation.

This year, the conference is focused on themes highlighting advocacy for impact, with special emphasis on advancing Black homeownership and addressing the historic low supply of affordable homes.

Habitat Susquehanna’s Executive Director, Yvonne Golczewski, and Habitat Susquehanna’s Board member (and former Habitat homeowner), Katie York, will meet with Maryland’s Congressional leaders to discuss federal solutions that will help increase access to affordable homeownership in every state, including Harford and Cecil counties, Maryland.
